Sawmills Are Located Below Casas Grandes, However; Land Here Too High.

WORK ALREADY IN PROGRESS

Men and Materials Are Now Being Secured in El Paso to Build the Mills.

'Twin lumber mills having a combined capacity of 800,000 feet per day, with a lumber camp surrounding it at the new town of Pearson, 21 miles south of Casas Grandes, and a planing mill, box factory and finishing plant employing from 300 to 400 men to be located In El Paso, is the extent of the operations now under way and contemplated by the F. S. Pearson syndicate.

El Paso for a time expected to get the saw mills as well as the planing mills, but it is given out that the land which the concern wanted for the milis below El Paso was held at such a high price that the company decided to build in Mexico.

Preparing to Build.

Hiram S. Smith, of Madera, Mex., general manager of the lumber department of the Pearson interests, and W. A. Wilkinson, of Minneapolts, who has the construction contract for the big mills, are in consultation in Chicago this week regarding the work at the front. In the meantime. Chris Moffat, superintendent of construction for W. A. Wilk-inson, is in El Paso buying materials, supplies, tools and hiring men to go to the front to carry out the construccampaign which is being planned in Chlengo.

Moffat arrived Wednesday morning from Mexico, and is the busi-est man in El Paso, hiring men, purchasing supplies, securing office men and stenographers and attending to the hundred and one details incident to starting operations on an extensive scale in a country where cattle were grazing a month ago.

South of Canas Grandes.

Pearson, the new town where the twin saw mills are being built, is about 21 miles south of the town of Casas, Grandes and is located on the San Miguel river. It is understood that the Terrazas interests have given the Pearson syndicate 1,000 acres of land surrounding the site of the new town and in addition to the lumber camp and its adjacent town, there will be a large olony of settlers located in the immediate vicinity of Pearson, making it one of the important towns in that part

Although there is nothing definite yet regarding the location of the planing mills and the other wood working plants in El Paso, Mr. Moffat says it is almost certain that this will be done providing suitable suites can be secured here for the location of the plant, which will employ from 300 to 400 according to the construction superin-tendent's estimate, judging from the demand for such a plant to handle the output of the saw mills at Pearson. Such a plant would work up the rough lumber product of the mills, Mr. Moffat says, and would be one of the big industries of the city when established.

Mills of Large Capacity. Regarding the Chihuahua mills, Mr. Moffat has the data on his finger tip4 tion? for he has just come from the front and is familiar with the different branches mills will be twin ones," he said Wednesday. "Each mill will have three double cutting band saws and two horizontal resaws, making a battery of six double cutting bands and four horizintal resaws in the two mills. These saws will have a capacity of $90,000 feet of lumber in the 20-hour day of two ten hour shifts. These mills will be in the center of a piling lumber yard 160 acres in extent and will have a power house containing a battery of 16 boilers, each having 200 horse power

"To give an idea of the size of this battery of bollers, a comparison of those at the Southwestern Portland Cement plant shows that the capacity of the power plant at the Pearson mills just twice that of the big ce ment plant. Installed in the power plant wil be 1,000 K. W. turbines which will furnish electric power for the direct driven machinery of the big plant. The machine shop will be 172 by 36

Frost, the fear of all cotton growers, has no terror for the Barstow irrigationists this year, for the cotton crop liminary moves on various measures has sprouted and is coming up without before the present congress, the insurany hindrance from the frost, while cold has killed cotton elsewhere all over the south. Of the 3000 acres in cotton cultivation surrounding Barstow, 1000 acres is under the Biggs irrigation system and the 2000 acres under the Barstow system.

Barstow system. Barstow system.

The acreage is larger this year than last, according to S. V. Biggs, of the Biggs irrigation system, who is at the Sheldon. The reason for this is that the price of cotton was higher last year and induced the ranchers to put in larger crops this year.

Cotton grows well in the Barstow district, Mr. Biggs says, and there were 1000 bales ginned last year from about 2000 acres. This cotton brought from 14 to 15 cents a pound for the ginned product or aout $70 a bais.
